Yes/No Word Game

Create a word list of words that your child knows. At the top of this word list card, write the vowels AEIOU. You can add Sometimes Y, if they know that rule. Let your child pick a word card and you ask them yes and no questions to guess what word he has picked.

Does the word begin with the letter _____?

Does the word end in a vowel?

Does the word have a short _____ sound, like _____?

Does the word have a long _____ sound like _____?

Rack 'em Up

Give your child a dry erase board and show them a flash card with a word that they are learning. Have them write out the word on their dry-erase board. Have them find the letters in the word on passing signs and have your child cross off each letter that they find.

Shoot the Letter

Ask your child to find the letter _____ or the word _____ and have them point and shoot with a pretend bow and arrow. They can hunt the words and letters that they are working on.

Word Search

Create a word search puzzle from the words that your child can read. Print it out and put on a clipboard. Have them mark the words while driving. Using words from their favorite shows or video games are also fun ways to get them engaged. You can use the site <http://puzzlemaker.discoveryeducation.com/WordSearchSetupForm.asp> to create your own word search puzzle to print out.

Word BINGO

Create a BINGO card with the words that your child can read. You can call out the words and have them mark them off until they get BINGO. Print out 2 of the cards below.
